By Sen. George Smathers

WASHINGTON — Members of the Florida delegation are sorting their facts and arguments to present at appropriations hearings on the works projects being carried on in the state.

Fully convinced that there is only one sound approach to the problem of flood and drought, we have firmly determined to fight for an orderly speed-up of the giant flood control program.

The entire delegation will join in urging that ten million dollars—the amount recommended by the Army Engineers and amount called for by the logical phasing of the project—be appropriated for the next fiscal year, beginning July 1.

This decision was reached at a breakfast meeting with leaders from the Flood Control District a few days after the President's budget was presented to the Congress. Here for the meeting were Elgin Bayless, chairman of the board of governors of the Flood Control District, Turner Wallis, FCD secretary, and Herbert C. Gee, consulting engineer.

While frankly pleased that the validity of the arguments we have been making for the past year, budget allocation by 48%, we feel no hesitancy in asserting that it is poor economy to draw back short of the capabilities of the engineers to efficiently carry on construction.

Yet the $6,300,000 recommendation of the President is one of the most encouraging aspects of the budget, Florida-wise, and we may wind up fighting hard to hold that figure.

PARK PROGRESS: Development of Everglades National Park has seemed slow, but the year 1955 will reflect more significantly the results of many preparatory labor and expenditures.

The Budget carries funds for nearly a million-dollar program for the coming year $691,102 to be exact. Of this construction will get $726,100, while $153,292 goes for management and protection, and $71,710 to maintenance and rehabilitation.

SIGN OF SPRING: Princesses are being chosen here already for the Spring festivities. Every year each state selects a princess to compete for the title of Queen of the Year. This year, Miss Carol Weatherly, of Jacksonville, who works for Congressman Charlie Bennett, represented Florida. The new princess is scheduled to be chosen on Feb. 1—by popular vote—at a dinner meeting of the Florida State Society. The winner will be crowned at a Princess Dance, staged by the society Feb. 25.

FAST WORK: When is a man a congressman? Due to a bit of fast foot-work on the part of "he-coon" Sikes, Paul Rogers, son of the late Dwight Rogers, took office a few days before schedule. When a man is elected to Congress, his election is "certified" by the counties to the State of State in Tallahassee. The Secretary then sends a certificate to the Speaker of the House in Washington and then back to the counties. Rogers, who was sworn in, in Rogers' case, while the papers were still being processed in Tallahassee, the House voted to accept him by "unanimous consent" and he took office without being certified. One of the rarest maneuvers we've ever heard of, Sikes, who engineered it, said, "We all knew he was elected—and it worked, didn't it?"

MEANS BUSINESS: It looks like Senator Smathers means business when he talks about the United States setting up a separate lending agency for Latin America. The other day in the Capitol he had a tiff over it with Maj. Gen. Glen E. Edgerton, managing director and president of the Export-Import Bank. "The trouble," Smathers told the general, "is the people running the X-M Bank don't have enough imagination. They are trying to operate it like a local American Bank where they will lend you all the money you need. In dealing with the expansion of Latin-American business and trade, we will have to go by the prospective results—not by ability to repay. We've got a big gamble in Latin-America—and we'd better take it."

DON'T GET LOST: If you

And naturally, I will live in DR-1.

That is, as soon as I can rally the dogs in the Glades behind the banner of "Zoning for Pups, Too."

Seems to me that people here have been arguing, agreeing, negotiating, and planning zoning for an excruciatingly long time, without any consideration for where we dogs care to live.

If ever there's a doghouse should be condemned, mine and Luis's should.

But does anybody but us care that our "house" is an enormous, drabby cardboard box with a hole cut in it, fitted down over our basket for winter? This box absorbs dampness, rattles in wind, and occasionally lid-flips when I'm in a hurry to get out of it.

Checking around the area, I have found other dog-living conditions such as these:

A number of my canine associates sleep in truck cabs.

Several hundred spend most of the night on foot, running around barking—and I suppose they must be put aside for further consideration since I can't get hold of enough dogie to tie them all.

A sizeable group sleeps under porches.

Few if any dogs are given a real place in the home, say in their masters' bedrooms.

I think, on the latter point, that people are darned narrow-minded about fleas and ticks.

Who minds a few of those in the bed? Some all the time—some have pet names.

The "Zoning for Pups, Too" plan is simple.

DR-1 is Dog Residential Zone 1, with each dog to have his or her own pillow, at the very least, but preferably have a bed in the bedroom. These accommodations must be constructed to withstand the onslaught of children or cats.

DR-1 is graded downward somewhat, for dogs who can get by with just any old pillow or a folded blanket to sleep on. In-dogs, of course, as DR-1.

Dog Zone Commercial, known as DC, would require that all watchdogs who spend the night keeping an eye on the safe or the sock be given some form of wooden house suitable for indoor (porch) or outdoor living. DAI is Dog Zone Agricultural and Industrial, and would provide floored tents for animals required by instinct or preference or a heavy hand to sleep outdoors in fields or around farm or industrial equipment.

That way, if a dog gets tired of roving or jumping in and out of trucks and tractors, he can find nearby a suitable if not airtight place to sleep.

My entire pup-zoning plan explain to you know your way around up here in Washington, you'd better make a note of these office numbers.

Congressman Dante Fascell, of Miami, is in room 1216, in the New Office Building. Paul Rogers is in the same office that his father occupied for years, 111 in the Old Building. Bill Cramer, Florida's Mr. Republican, room 124 in the Old Building. And Senator Smathers has moved into a four-room suite—working in room number 304 of the Senate Office Building.

ROPEWORKS SEEKS FIBER FAR AFIELD

Tanganyika, Kenya, New Zealand, China, Russia, Italy, St. Helena and Mexico supply North Ireland's ropeworks the fiber that goes into the various rope products braided there.

Each week 200 to 300 tons of rope leave the Belfast Rope Co., Ltd., according to the London Times survey of business in Northern Ireland. The sources of raw material used in the manufacture of rope have changed since the end of the war. Manila and Sumatra formerly provided one-quarter of the world production of hard fibers; however, after the war, plantations were in poor condition and Sumatra factors were in litigation. A search of world producers of fibers turned up the foregoing suppliers of the needed raw materials.

With assured sources of raw material, the ropework company produces binder twine for use in the world's harvest fields, plaited cord for window shades, travel lines for fishing fleets and a variety of cords for miscellaneous uses. The use of the combine harvester in the majority of the world's wheat fields has made binder twine a major item of the company's manufacture.

The fibers woven at this Belfast works go into such a variety of products as carpeting and matting. Notable users of the Belfast works product have been the yacht "Endeavor" which was towed across the Atlantic for the America's cup race with a synthetic fiber line, and traces for sleigh-dog harnesses used by the Graham Land Expedition into Antarctica, made from special light line.

The war years brought the Belfast Ropeworks its greatest difficulties, says the Times. In the midst of producing 250,000 camouflage nets, ropes for barrage balloons and scramble nets for amphibious craft, German bombs destroyed more than half the factory. After three months, repairs were effected in hastily-erected shops which made it possible for the plant to resume operations on nearly full scale.

From the beginning in 1876 with some 50 employees, the Belfast Ropeworks Co., Ltd. now covers an area of 40 acres and employs more than 2,000 people. It is remarkable, the article continues, that many individuals are profitably employed in an industry that fabricates a product from material shipped in and not grown locally.

NO PROTEIN - NO PRODUCTION
"There is no way of short-changing a cow on protein and still have a cow that will produce a calf every year. A cow short of protein will tend to have a calf one year and skip the next. She has to do this because she needs to recuperate and build body stores in order to conceive and give birth to another calf. This is nature's way of protecting her against the lack of protein."

The original "Bill Hickok", of motion picture fame will be starred, as well as some 200 other cowboys, cowgirls, trick riders, ropers, circus acts, and daredevil stunts in the show sponsored by the Lions Club of Belle Glade.

Mrs. Nash urges cooperation from everyone in the national effort to fight polio. Great strides have been made in combating this dreaded disease but a great deal of money is needed to carry on this important work. Due to the fact that a chairman for this area was not picked until the middle of the month, arrangements for the drive were delayed and the drive will continue later than anticipated. However, the Mother's March will take place throughout the county on the same date. Last year the bulk of the proceeds derived from the drive came from the Mother's March which Beta Sigma Phi sponsored.

REFINERY OK'D BY BG CHAMBER

BELLE GLADE—Directors of the Chamber of Commerce expressed interest in establishment of an oil refinery in this county at the chamber meeting Wednesday night.

Chamber President George Wedgworth reported on his meeting with the Palm Beach Port Authority and with the president of the Frontier Oil Refining Company. After hearing his report directors decided to support establishment of a refinery in the county.

Wedgworth reported on the meeting he attended in Tallahassee last week when the Internal Improvement Board hired H. G. Morton, fiber expert, to promote the sale of Florida fibers to various processors and industrial users.

Florida Chambers of Commerce are anxious to have the 10% Federal transportation tax on travel in South America lifted, according to Mrs. Edwina Young, chamber secretary. To this end the local chamber is supporting a resolution to present the Florida congressional delegation expressing its interest in revocation of the tax.

A motion supporting the state advertising commission in its efforts to raise its budget from $200,000 bi-annually to $200,000 annually was tabled for further study.

Homestead Farms Realty PAHOKEE—City Clerk Dorothy Graham said that homestead exemption applications have arrived at her office and are available to taxpayers. Deadline for filing the exemption applications is April 1.

DIET IN PREGNANCY

During pregnancy special attention should be given the diet in order that proper balance for growing needs may be maintained.

The child obtains its food supply from the mother, and it is efficient in essential materials for healthy building of bones, tissues and teeth, a weak, unhealthy baby may result. On the other hand, a diet supplying the necessary substances will foster the development of a healthy, well-formed baby.

An adequate intake of the essential foods is usually recommended for pregnant women. These consist of milk, fruits, vegetables, meat, fish, poultry, or eggs, cereals and finally breads, cereals, butter and vegetables.

A weight gain of from twenty to twenty-five pounds during the period of pregnancy is considered normal. Strict adherence to the diet will not only maintain this satisfactory increase but make it easier for the mother to regain her normal figure after the birth of the baby.

On the other hand, eating large amounts of fats, such as fatty meats, butter and cream, fried foods and gravy, produce an abnormal weight gain which, in turn, taxes the function of the kidneys, liver and heart.

This is also true of starches, such as spaghetti, noodles, bread and potatoes; salty foods like popcorn, salted peanuts and sweets such as sugar, candy and pastries.

Because the activity of the thyroid gland is increased during pregnancy, an adequate amount of iodine can be maintained by substituting sea food at least once a week for the daily serving of lean meat, or using iodized salt.

Regular elimination of the bowels and kidneys is most important. Their smooth functioning can be maintained by drinking large amounts of water and fruit juices. Eating fresh fruit is also recommended.

As soon as pregnancy is suspected, a woman should consult her physician. His advice and counsel is necessary to her well being.

WORLD PRAYER PROGRAM FEB. 25

PAHOKEE—"Abide In Me" John 15-4, is the subject of the annual World Day of Prayer program to be presented by members of the senior class of Pahokee high school on Friday afternoon, February 25, at the high school auditorium. Thomas Quebec, senior class sponsor, will assist members with the plans.

The program, sponsored annually by the WSCS of First Methodist Church for several years, is being ordered from national headquarters by Mrs. R. F. Hurt, spiritual life chairman of the WSCS. The elementary grades will probably present a program in keeping with the day entitled "Children, Keep My Commandments," Mrs. Hurt said.

Further plans for the occasion, which in the past has been observed by the interested citizens of the community, will be announced later.

Dr. E. C. Johnson in answer to his question, professional offices are permitted on residential property provided the doctor or other professional man occupies the premises and has not more than one employee who is not a resident at those premises.

Wrong Business Area?

During a discussion of business zoning, Ned Koeber said that keeping the downtown business zone as it now stands did not appear to be right because "If only five new businesses have come in in a period of recent years, there must be something wrong with that area."

Bair pointed out that "There is a mistaken idea about how much residential land is here... Suppose somebody came here with a business and wanted to bring 200 more people here... Where would they live? I think you must protect what residential area you have." He noted that the rezoning of numerous areas for residential only would be a step forward in that protection.

Dr. Johnson said "Just like everything else in this town, people with influence will go on getting zoning changed like they want it."

No 'Spot Zoning'

Bair replied that "Any of this zoning can be changed later, but not on a spot-zoning basis, only upon due consideration by the zoning board and the council, not changes because of whim."

Kahn complimented Bair as "this man from out of town, who makes it so clear that if we have an area zoned for business, we could serve a population of 50,000 people. This thing is engineered for a step forward."

Chairman Apelgren said he would call one more meeting of the zoning commission to consider several changes suggested, before presentation of the proposed ordinance to Council.

mitted for purchase of a new 30 days at the last commission meeting to bring evidence before the commission, but he is serving in Japan and consideration of his interests was the reason for the grace period.

Building permits were granted to I. P. Roberts for houses to cost $10,000 and $12,000 respectively; to Belcher Oil Company for a $4,000 warehouse and to R. W. Griffin for a $2,300 apartment.

No Negro Changes

No substantial changes are anticipated in Negro zones as it now stands. W. A. Keen was informed. Bacom Point Rd. is zoned commercial up to the Frank Friend property and from there on to the city limits is Residential 1, the highest classification. Keen was told upon his question. Commissioners added that no barns to store machinery can be put up on Bacom Point lots, or on the agricultural side of that road closer than 600 feet to the road.

Zoning commissioners agreed to consider what if any revision to take on the matter of professional offices being located in the R-1 zones. As the proposed ordinance now stands, they told.

New EMH Nurses

'Singing Gators' in Free Concert Tuesday Night

BELLE GLADE — The University of Florida division of music will present the men's glee club in its annual spring tour, featuring the girls' sextette, at the Belle Glade elementary school auditorium next Tuesday at 8:15 p.m.

The oldest choral organization of the University of Florida, the men's glee club has been one of the most popular singing groups in the Southeast for a quarter of a century. In addition to its annual tours of Florida, the glee club has earned praises at such varied occasions as the New York World's Fair, several nationwide radio nationwide radio broadcasts, and at an Easter sunrise services for former President Truman.

Recently the members of this group celebrated their 25th anniversary with a performance starring Metropolitan Opera Tenor James Melton, a former member of the glee club. Under its new title of the "Singing Gators," the men's glee club is about to begin its annual statewide tour, climaxed by a performance in Havana, Cuba.

Students is the driving spirit behind the Singing Gators. In order to please its members as well as its audiences, the group presents a varied program of classical, semi-classical and popular music.

The conductor, Norman Abelson, comes to the University of Florida from New York where he was awarded the degree of master of arts and has completed work on his doctorate at Columbia University. Active in New York Music circles, Abelson made his concert debut at Carnegie Recital Hall in 1953 and was warmly received by the critics. His varied experience in opera, oratorio, radio, and television, in addition to his academic work, well qualifies him to assume the directorship of the "Singing Gators."

Of special interest to people in Belle Glade is the fact that two hometown boys are in the glee club—Jerry Brent and Freddie Stevens. The concert is being sponsored by the Belle Glade Community Chorus and there is no admission, nor will a free offering be taken. The public is cordially invited to attend.

A REGAL PYTHON, 25 ft. 2 1/2 inches long, one of the largest of its kind in the United States, recently arrived at the Miami Serpents from Bangkok, Thailand. Pythons average about 10 feet, although some are said to have reached 50 feet.

Sewer Feasibility
Russell pointed out on a map of the city the areas for which engineering plans for sewers were made seven years ago. He also indicated areas in which building has progressed sufficiently to make sewer construction economically feasible. Stating that plans discussed in the hundreds of thousands of dollars were rather out of reach of most taxpayers, Russell said that concrete individual taxpayer costs per house were needed.

To this end he cited statistics showing that most sewer systems in the U. S. cost .50 to .75 cents per house per month, the average cost being around $2 per house per month. When individual households know how much their share will be for their sewers, they are in a better position to decide what they want and how much they can pay, Russell said.

Carlton Presides

Commissioners Walter Ashley, Herman Close and Zack Ingram heard Russell's report. Commissioner H. O. Carlton presided in his capacity as vice-mayor for the first regular meeting since Harold Rabin's resignation was forced by ill health.

Question arose as to the advisability of coordinating water works, sewers and sewerage disposal systems. Russell said that cities save money in the long run with a correlated program. He pointed out that interest on bonds issued for sewer-water system construction is usually at a lower rate. Control of water to sewer users makes bill collections for city government agencies more feasible, he added.

Inspector's Assignments

The first duty of the new building inspector was laid down before he was appointed last night, W. L. Cunningham, sr., as newly assigned city building, plumbing and electrical inspector, will immediately inspect the premises of the Cotton Club to see if that place of business should be closed on the basis that the building is unfit for habitation and that sanitation is below code standards. If these two conditions are found to exist, City Commissioners will order the business closed up.

Kenneth C. Mock of K. C. Mock and Associates, engineers, appeared at the commission's invitation to outline his proposal for being appointed city engineer. Decision was made to table action until the newly-appointed city manager can outline the 1955 work program as a basis for the engineer's negotiations. Mock prefaced his proposal with the suggestion that a contract be re-negotiated with the local engineer previously retained.

Vice Mayor Carlton urged down before he was appointed last night, W. L. Cunningham, sr., as newly assigned city building, plumbing and electrical inpector, will immediately inspect the premises of the Cotton Club to see if that place of business should be closed on the basis that the building is unfit for habitation and that sanitation is below code standards. If these two conditions are found to exist, City Commissioners will order the business closed up.

before the dragline starts work on the canal. Commissioners' attention was called to the need for the immediate reconstruction of the waterline intake across the canal and provisions for the footbridge across from the school.

In other actions, the commission:

AUTHORIZED street repairs in Beverly Park subdivision; ADOPTED on first reading ordinance authorizing fluoridation of city water supply;

REQUESTED City Clerk Frank Anderson to meet with City Attorney Claude Jones to plan for the forthcoming legislative clinic;

ADOPTED civil service board recommendations that George F. Beardon be promoted from fireman grade 7 to grade 6, and promoted Louis Lowery to probationary patrolman, grade 8.

ADVERTISED loading zone stall sale to begin Feb. 1 for the Feb. 15 to June 1 season.
